BORNEO, BEARS AND BOOKS

Learn about the importance of the tropical rainforest through Dr Sarah's multimedia presentation which uses the species of sun bears to delve into environmental challenges like poaching, the illegal pet trade and habitat loss. Discover how one man is making a difference against the extinction clock, and learn ways you can be part of the solution, not the problem.

CAN THE PEN SAVE THE WORLD?

Take a journey through environmental books that have changed the way we see the natural world: launching ground-breaking ideas, igniting environmental movements, and shaping governance. Then work together to add to the reading list which Sarah will send you afterwards, and discover ways YOUR pen can save the world!

THE BEST DOCTORATE IN THE WORLD

In 2012, in the middle of the humid jungle of Borneo, Sarah Pye met the smallest bear species in the world, and the man dedicated to saving them. When she asked how she could help, 'Do what you do best' was the powerful reply. Those five words led Sarah on a new trajectory, and in this talk she takes you along for the ride.

AROUND THE BEND

In this honest keynote address, Dr Sarah Pye shares the highs and lows of her adventurous life: from a 'boat-schooled teenager' sailing the world, to a restaurant manager in Hawaii, a boat captain in the Whitsundays and a single mum on the Sunshine Coast. Through anecdotes of life-threatening storms, momentous rejection letters and podium finishes, participants learn there is more than one path to your goals.

WRITING THE ENVIRONMENT

Science needs communicators!

In this hands-on workshop, participants learn to harness their observation skills and use literary techniques to improve narrative and informational writing about the environment. With their tools sharpened, they put them to the test.

RAINFOREST IN A JAR

Did you know the oldest terrarium in the world hasn't been opened since 1972? In this hands-on workshop, Sarah explains how this is possible and why it is important, before participants make their very own mini rainforest, or terrarium, to take home. All equipment provided.

Film Screening

BEARTREK DOCUMENTARY SCREENING

American bear biologist and PBS presenter, Chris Morgan, from UPROAR, has given Sarah permission to screen his expansive film to increase awareness of the importance of bears around the world. One of the scientists which features in this award-winning documentary is Dr Wong, the hero of Sarah's books.
